DAHLIA CLUMPS

THE ILLUSTRATION shown on the first page is one born of necessity, and, while almost self-explanatory, a few words will not be out of place.

A glance at the illustration will show how deceptive the words "field clump" or "whole roots" may be. Some growers propagate from cuttings, some from tubers. Each produce what is known commercially as "clumps." It is therefore of the greatest importance to the purchaser which kind of a clump the advertisement or quotation refers to, Figure 2 or Figure 3.

The figures presented represent fairly the relative sizes of commercial Dahlia tubers, as grown in this country.

My system of growing is from tubers. These produce stock as shown by Figure 3. These are divided for planting and sale purposes, as shown in Figure 1.

In dividing, each piece passes a critical scrutiny and all mangled and worthless tubers are removed so that only stock of known vitality is sent out. By this method I can save my customers twenty to fifty per cent. in express charges.

These divisions usually average heavier than the clump grown from cuttings. No attempt is here made to cast reflections upon the quality of cutting stock. It is more a question of size than quality.

Prices quoted in this list are for strong divisions with from one to three good eyes. In weight approximately 25 pounds to the 100.

BUSINESS TERMS

1. Prices quoted in this list do not include express or mailage; add 20c per doz. for Dahlias for postage, other articles at the rate of 8c per lb.
2. Orders from unknown persons must be accompanied by cash or satisfactory references.
3. No goods will be sent C. O. D., unless one-half the amount accompanies the order.
4. Five per cent. discount from this list will be allowed on all orders amounting to $5.00 or over if the cash accompanies the order.
5. No extra charge will be made for packing.
6. Six articles of a kind at dozen rates; twenty at 100 rates.
7. Goods ordered sent by freight will be sent at the risk of consignee.

PRICES

I do not claim that my prices are the lowest; nor have I ever coveted the reputation of running a "cheap place." I aim to do an honest business and at the same time retain a profit on my investments. The present evolutionary period of the Dahlia requires the purchasing of new and costly varieties and the discarding of many hitherto good varieties; and consequent loss and waste of stock. Many of the best varieties are shy producers of tubers. Nevertheless, my prices will be found quite reasonable and even lower than others. The past season in this locality was one especially favorable, and my stock is finer than ever before. Any orders intrusted to me will receive my careful and liberal attention. (See Retail Catalogue accompanying this for full list of varieties and fuller descriptions.)
